Program Committee's report:

The New Deal leadership has persistently defined its program as one of hope and liberalism. xxx No leadership can produce a movement of hope if it begins with the assumption that the clock of the national economy is running down, that its mechanism has become so faulty it can be kept going only if continuously run by hand-the hand of the federal government

The primary reason for the economic failure of the New Deal goes beyond detailed errors in legislation, administration and the selection of federal personnel. It lies in the fact that, despite the ideas it has expressed for social America, the New Deal leadership has almost completely misunderstood economic America.

The present administration in seven years, has admittedly increased expenditures by more that 138 per cent. It should not be too difficult to accomplish a twenty per cent reduction from the present level, and it is reasonable to expect that with such a reduction and a substantial increase in the national income, federal expenditures and revenues can be brought into balance during

REPORTS ON PROGRAM Glann Frank Submits Report of Two Years of "Taking Soundings" among Rank and File of Party; Charges New Deal Has Choked Off Enterprise and Has Been an Economic Failure

Washington, Feb. 18 - A twenty-per cent reduction in federal spending was suggested by the Republican Program Committee tonight in outlining a broad set of principles - headed by keep out of war - which may form a basis for the 1940 party platform.

Covering almost the entire field of domestic and foreign policy, the 28,000-word report was prepared after the committee, headed by Glenn Frank, had spent two years "taking soundings" among the Republican rank and file. It was presented last Friday to the party's national committee meeting here at a closed session.

At the outset, the report charged that the new deal had choked off enterprise and that the Roosevelt administration had been an "economic failure," then enunciated these major principles as a guide for "A Program for a Dynamic America:'

A twenty per cent reduction in federal spending "should not be too difficult," and this, coupled with a substantial increase in the national income, should bring a balanced federal budget during 1942.

The program committee made no attempt to write a party platform, since that responsibility rests upon the Washington, Feb. 18 (P)-Here are National Convention. It will, however, submit extensive (Both Johannes and Maksalahti key sentences from the Republican detailed materials covering all issues and policy suggestions in the report to the Resolutions Committee which will be charged with drafting a platform at the convention.

In defining certain central policies of the New Deal as reactionary, this committee is neither juggling words not attempting to coin an artificial campaign slogan. The record speaks for itself.

Hit Economic Program

The economic program of the New Deal, despite sporadic reversals of policy, has rested essentially on the control of production, the creation of scarcity, and the boosting of prices. At the turn of the century, this was the precise program of the least enlightened leadership of Big Business. Liberalism fought this program then. But, by some strange twist of thinking, these policies which were attacked as reactionary and as a threat to the well-being of the people, when followed by Big Business then, are defined by the New Deal leadership as liberal and as essential instruments of social progress, when followed by Big Government now. We are, as a result, again faced with the problem of uncentralized political duly

"The legal rights of American workers to organize and to act collectively to improve their status, together with the principle that the courts could not be used to prevent the exercise of this right, was established long before the passage of the National Industrial Recovery Act or the National Labor Relations Act. Republican leadership recognized the principle of collective action and corporate responsibility some 50 years ago. In its reiteration of this principle, the National Labor Relations Act raises no issue. The right of labor to organize and bargain 'collectively cannot be made an issue between two intelligent political parties.

There is, however, in the judgment of this committee. justified dissatisfaction with varied aspects of the National Labor Relations Act and with its administration by the National Labor Relations Board.

"The National Labor Relations Act requires responsible amendment slike in the interest of American workers and in the interest of a productive functioning of American enter-

"The objective of such amendment must be to maintain without wavering a firm guaranty of the right of free organization and collective bargaining, while so revising the provisions and procedures and so altering the spirit of the administration of the act as to surround the whole employeeemployer relationship with a sense of complete fairness to all parties and all interests con-

Free Labor Movement The maintenance of a free labor movement is of crucial importance to American workers. The major gains acheived by workers have been achieved through a trade unionism functioning as a movement of organized self-help. And any attempt to find a short-cut to satisfaction and security for labor through a deal with political leadership will prove delusive. Government rarely becomes the patron of a movement without ending as its boss.

"When the fortunes of labor are too intimately tied to government action, the power of government, under shifting circumstances, may be used to hamstring as well as to liberate the workers. 'If there is a single issue in which discussion of the 'farm problem' comes to focus it is in the insistence that the prices of farm products the farmer sells must be brought into baliustrial products the farmer buys. If ye are to seek this parity-and it must be sought we must have a point of reference from which to judge our success or failure in reaching it Parity Prices Discussed

The New Deal administration sets as a goal of 'parity prices' the relationship between ces which existed in the years from 1909 to 1914. Some insist cannot be defended. The stubborn fact is, however, that, in farm prices, the spread between high and low is too great, the rise and fall too rapid. And we shall not realize a sustained prosperity for our whole economy until this situation is brought into better balance.

"The 'parity' that will bring the maximum benefit to the farmer, in the judgment of this committee, is such relationship between the prices of what the farmer sells and the prices of what the farmer buys as will bring about the greatest possible interchange of goods and services between village town. and city on the one hand and the farm on the other.

"To set out to achieve 'parity of this sort is not to plan a special privilege for American farmers. It is only to seek a better balanced functioning of our economy. The increased trade between city and country such 'parity' will produce will be a boon to our whole economic life. Industrial workers should be as eager as farmers to see this sort of 'parity' established. And business men, industrialists, and bankers should equally welcome it for the tonic it will administer to the whole American enterprise."

Highlights

Deal record in the monetary field has been one of rash experiment in applying various instruments of fiscal policy to accomplish miraculous cures of our economic and social ills

It is not the function of tariff policy to erect walls so high that behind them industries can maintain excessive prices or be so completely freed from external competition that they become inefficient.

The National Labor Relations Act requires responsible amendment alike in the interest of American workers and in the interest of a production functioning of American enterprise.

The "parity" that will bring the maximum benefit to the farmer xxx is such relationship between the prices of what the farmer sells and the prices of what the farmer buys as will bring about the greatest possible interchange of goods and services between village, town and city on the one hand and the farm on the other.

A policy of permanently scaling down the output of American farms is as unsound as a permanent scaling down of the output of American factories

Hit Economic Program

"The economic program of the New Deal, despite sporadic reversals of policy, has rested essentially on the control of production, the creation of scarcity, and the boosting of prices. At the turn of the century, this was the precise program of the least enlightened leadership of Big Business. Liberalism fought this program then. But, by some strange twist of thinking, these policies which were attacked as reactionary and as a threat to the well-being of the people, when followed by Big Business then, are defined by the New Deal leadership as liberal and as essential instruments of social progress, when followed by Big Government now. workers to organize and to act collectively to improve their status, together with the principle that the courts could not be used to prevent the exercise of this right, was established long before the passage of the National Industrial Recovery Act or the National Labor Relations Republican leadership recognized the principle of collective action and corporate responsibility some 50 years ago. In its reiteration of this principle, the National Labor Relations Act raises no issue. The right of labor to organize and bargain 'collectively cannot be made an issue between two intelligent political parties. "There is, however, in the judgment of this committee. justified dissatisfaction with varied aspects of the National Labor Relations Act and with its administration by the National Labor Relations Board.

"The objective of such amendment must be to maintain without wavering a firm guaranty of the right of free organization and collective bargaining, while so revising the provisions and procedures and so altering the spirit of the administration of the act as to surround the whole employeeemployer relationship with a sense of complete fairness to all parties and all interests con-

Free Labor Movement "The maintenance of a free labor movement is of crucial importance to American workers. The major gains acheived by workers have been achieved through a trade unionism functioning as a movement of organized self-help. And any attempt to find a short-cut to satisfaction and security for labor through a deal with political leadership will prove delusive. Government rarely becomes the patron of a movement without ending as its boss When the fortunes of labor are too intimately tied to government action, the power of government, under shifting circumstances, may be used to hamstring as well as to liberate the workers. American labor caught a fleeting glimpse of the price workers maye have to pay for a too close dependence upon leatism is discussed at length. Such government when the executive hibition of the right to strike on the ground that the NRA had made strikes unnecessary.'

Discussing the agricultural situation, the report states that most of the problems involved in the effective operation of the American farm Of Former Kaiser and the satisfying development o the farm home are identical with the problems involved in the enterprises and homes of all other citizens and are not, therefore, peculial to the farmer. The report con-

"If there is a single issue in which discussion of the 'farm problem' comes to focus it is in the insistence that the prices of farm products the farmer sells must be brought into balance with the prices of the industrial products the farmer buys. If ye are to seek this parity-and it must be sought we must have a point of reference from which to judge our success or failure in reaching it Parity Prices Discussed "The New Deal administration sets as a goal of 'parity prices' the relationship between farm prices and industrial prices which existed in the years from 1909 to 1914. Some insist that the whole concept of parcannot be defended. The stubborn fact is, however, that, in farm prices, the spread between high and low is too great, the rise and fall too rapid. And we shall not realize a sustained prosperity for our whole economy until this situation is brought into better balance.

"The 'parity' that will bring the maximum benefit to the farmer, in the judgment of this committee, is such relationship between the prices of what the farmer sells and the prices of what the farmer buys as will bring about the greatest possible interchange of goods and services between village, town, and city on the one hand and the farm on the other.

"To set out to achieve 'parity' of this sort is not to plan a special privilege for American farmers. It is only to seek a better balanced functioning of our economy. The increased trade between city and country such 'parity' will produce will be a boon to our whole economic life. Industrial workers should be as eager as farmers to see this sort of 'parity' established And business men, industrialists, and bankers should equally welcome it for the tonic it will administer to the whole American enterprise."

Highlights

Deal record in the monetary field has been one of rash experiment in applying various instruments of fiscal policy to accomplish miraculous cures of our economic and social ills,

It is not the function of tariff policy to erect walls so high that behind them industries can maintain excessive prices or be so completely freed from external competition that they become inefficient.

The National Labor Relations Act requires responsible amendment alike in the interest of American workers and in the interest of a production functioning of American enterprise.

The "parity" that will bring the maximum benefit to the farmer xxx is such relationship between the prices of what the farmer sells and the prices of what the farmer buys as will bring about the greatest possible interchange of goods and services between village, town and city on the one hand and the farm on the other.

War in the East?

THE EUROPEAN WAR, thus far, has not followed the lines obligingly sketched out in advance by long-range strategists. The longdreaded horrors of aerial warfare on civilian populations have at least been deferred. The mass-slaughters of 1914-17 have not been repeated - and may not be repeated - on the western front. And there have been various lesser deviations from military and naval prophecies - as, for example, in respect to the pocket battleship, touted as combining the power of a capital ship with a cruiser's maneuverability, but actually effective, so far, only as a commerce raider.

Upsets in prophecies may extend to geography as well as to strategy. When the Russo-German partnership was formed, few commen- over and between the hot and barren foot hills of tators suggested that this war, like the last one, my native state. #### War in the East?

THE EUROPEAN WAR, thus far, has not followed the lines obligingly sketched out in advance by long-range strategists. The longdreaded horrors of aerial warfare on civilian populations have at least been deferred. The mass-slaughters of 1914-17 have not been repeated - and may not be repeated - on the western front. And there have been various lesser deviations from military and naval prophecies - as, for example, in respect to the pocket battleship, touted as combining the power of a capital ship with a cruiser's maneuverability, but actually effective, so far, only as a commerce raider.

Upsets in prophecies may extend to geography as well as to strategy. West's jump raise having shown that he had a hand practically as good as an opening bid, East was ready for a small slam as soon as his partner's response to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps bid showed possession of two aces.

After South led the club 5 to the dummy's A. East rattled off three high trumps, four hearts, a fourth spade to the 10, then led the club 8 from dummy. North, who had retained two cards in each minor, took with his slub K, then had his choice between giving the declarer a ruff-and-discard by means of a club return and building two diamond tricks for East by leading from his honors. So East lost only the one club trick and made his contract.

South, might have prevented North's trouble On the hearts, he could have discarded first his club 6, then his club 4, as a high-low to tell his partner to unblock the suit. Had North then tossed away his club K, the end-play would have been prevented. South could have won the club trick later, then led through the diamond A toward North's K. . . .

PROTECT YOUR PARTNER WHILE THE declarer is running off a string of set-up tricks, you should see that he probably is trying to strip the hands down so that he may try for a squeeze or lead-throwing end-play. Even if your own hand seems almost worthless, you may be able to protect your partner by means of your discards, indicating to him what he should hold and what he should throw away. Otherwise he may prove helpless prey to the deciarer's scheme.

Major Beauty Trifles

By HELEN FOLLETT

TREMENDOUS trifles have to ton that hangs by a thread is a sartorial crime. Lipstick pigment that wanders over the white flesh is an offense to the fastidious eye. Twisted stocking seams; how men hate em! They make a girl look sloppy Run-over heels are worse than all

Girls who are not as chummy with the bath tub as they should be have dingy complexions. When the hair has skidded past the regular shampoo date, everybody knows it. Hair shafts cling together, ringlets are stringy. Finger-nails must be kept in form, neatly ovaled at the eaves, not just camouflaged with the ruby shimmer. Dusting powders should be used after the bath, so there's no danger of developing the terrible B. O. Soiled gloves and hankies that have served their time place a girl among those who are careless about groom ing. Rips in coat linings and coats that need brushing aren't anything to write home about.

Good grooming is possible for every girl; doesn't cost anything, but does a heap to place her in the ranks of the good lookers.

Oily complexions keep the old powder pads busy and the pads don't seem to accomplish much. Sebaceous geysers go right on spouting. Get the upper hand of them by eating green salads and other vegetables, especially spinach and carrots. Drink plenty of water.

memory of our dear daughter, mother and wife, Mrs. Jessie Hartman Lamp, who departed this life one year ago today, February 17, 1839.

Just a year ago today, When our dear Jessie passed away, Our hearts are heavy and aching with But only sweet memories of her remain

The only girl we had to love, God called her home with Him up

Her life was so short,
For the many things she had planned.
We don't know new but
Some day we'll understand.
